Reference Letter for Jose Ramon Mendoza:

I am a racehorse trainer at Monterrico Racetrack in Peru. My father was also a horse breeder and trainer and I started training horses at age 15. I have known Jose Mendoza for 6 years and know his old employers in Argentina as well.

Jose is from Argentina and in Argentina horses are a way of life. Argentine people are born with horses in their blood and he is one of these people. He knows a little bit about everything with the horse and has a lot of different experience from working in breeding farms, with race horses and with polo horses. He is also a farrier and works with some horses trimming their feet and putting shoes on them.

In Argentina he worked for Haras Rancho Lujan. The owner of this breeding farm also trains horses in Peru which is how he ended up working at Monterrico as horse breaker. In Peru there are not very many people who can break horses. This requires more training and experience that he has.

Jose has trained around 10 young horses for me to wear a saddle and to be ridden. The horses he trains are well trained and well educated. He is good to the horses.

He is very good with horses that are having problems. He likes to give the horse time and tries to learn new ways to fix problems. He is very good at training horses to work out of the gates if they have trouble because he takes his time with them so that they understand.

Jose is easy to work with and always comes to work in a good mood and ready to work.
